

Ethanology Presents

St. Patrick's Day Irish Story Telling With David McDonnell

Author and storyteller David McDonnell will share his tales of Ireland with the guests of Ethanology on St. Patrick's Day, March 17th. David mixes his yarns and ancient tales with both wit and wee bit of history.

David has told stories throughout the United States and Ireland – keeping alive the ancient tradition of the Irish storyteller (seanchaí in Irish) to the delight of audiences everywhere.

You can enjoy the stories with one (or more) of Ethanology's handcrafted and locally distilled beverages.

It's a brilliant way to spend St. Patrick's Day afternoon. You'll come away a great Irish story – and a wee bit of information about Ireland and its history. Afterwards, you can party with the storyteller!

McDonnell is the author of ClanDonnell: A Storied History of Ireland, the winner of three book awards and universally positive critical reviews. His newest book, Buy The Horse A Guinness, will be released later in 2018.

Saturday, March 17th
